

PREPARATION REQUIRED FOR A SERIES OF BEDBUG SPRAY TREATMENTS

Chemical based Bed bug removal includes two (2) treatment visits. After the first treatment, a follow up treatment is required after two (2) weeks. In some cases, additional treatments might be needed. You must stay fully prepared, as indicated below, for the complete four (4) week treatment period.

Need To Know

Treatments will take place in both bedroom and living room areas. Treatment will include spraying and dusting. Areas to be sprayed or dusted will include all upholstered furniture, mattresses, box spring sofa, baseboards, cracks and crevices, bookcases, shelving units, dressers and any other living room and bedroom furniture inside your home.

You will need to leave your home prior to, and for four (4) hours after, treatment. People with health issues like difficulty breathing, a weak immune system, as well as pregnant women or newborns under 18 months, should stay out of the unit for 12 to 24 hours. You must stay fully prepared for the complete four (4) week treatment period. Do not open any clothing bags or storage containers that have been cleaned or cleared of bed bugs. If you open any bags or containers during this time, you may be re-infested with bed bugs during the treatment process and all treatments will need to be re-booked. You can keep a separate bag of clothes out for use during this period.
